

Warren Mok

Tenor

Warren Mok is a world renowned tenor from Hong Kong. His lyric-spinto tenor voice has been praised by the press: "His technique is rock solid, with beautiful even timbre, and an engaging enthusiasm on stage; ringing top notes were attacked and held in rocklike Pavarotti vein." (The Guardian in England). And from Opera Magazine: "...he seems to have modeled his performance on that of La Scala's Raoul and the late Franco Corelli, and comes amazingly close to the ideal. Suffice it to say that Mok has a ringing, rather baritone timbre and pours forth tone generously. His Raoul is a visceral experience not least for its secure, expansive high notes..."

Since his European debut in 1987 at the Deutsche Oper Berlin where he sang many leading roles, he has been making frequent guest appearances in opera houses and concert halls throughout the world, such as New York Carnegie Hall, London Royal Albert Hall, Berlin Philharmonie, Vienna Musik Verein, Deutsche Oper Berlin, Paris Opera, Leipzig Opera, Lyon Opera, Nice Opera, Sydney Opera House, The Netherlands Opera, Teatro Colon in Argentina, Teatro di Bologna Comunale in Italy, Royal Danish Opera, Bolshoi Theatre, Warsaw National Theatre, San Carlo Theater in Lisbon, Seattle Opera, Teatro di Cagliari Italy, Bilbao Opera ABAO, Teatro di Palma de Mallorca, Teatro Ventidio Basso Italy, Nancy Opera France, St. Etienne Esplanade France, Bergen Opera Norway, Opera Lyra Ottawa in Canada, Latvian National Opera, Lithuanian National Opera, Orlando Opera, Hawaii Opera Theater, National Opera of China, Shanghai Opera House, and Singapore Lyric Opera.
